Welcoming Front-Door Updates p. 8

◀ Instant Classic

A mahogany door with matching molding looks sophisticated and timeless. Bronze light fixtures complement the door's dark stain, and a painted garden bench sets an inviting tone. Evergreens and shrubs in planters beside the door add greenery and distinctive shapes that catch the eye.

Bold Color ▶

Paint your door with a bold pop of color for a whole new look. This orange hue feels wonderfully warm and welcoming, and it stands out even more against the door's white trim. Modern light fixtures and a stainless-steel mailbox add upscale appeal, while PVC planters are lightweight and practically maintenance-free. The geometric rug's subdued color complements the door's vibrant hue.

Address numbers can enhance your home's style. Visit houseart.net or atlashomewares.com to find your favorites.

Make your front door pop with a coat of bright orange paint. Try Maple Leaf (#250D-6) from Behr; behr.com.

◀ Old-World Character

The dark door, lighting fixtures, and mailbox bring a welcome sense of age to this remodeled entry. With a repaintable wood-look finish and an aluminum-clad frame, the fiberglass door is both stylish and low-maintenance. Above it, an iron trellis adds a sense of architecture—at an affordable price. The outdoor table offers an ideal way to display a collection of small potted plants.

ABOVE: The master bedroom, added to the back of the house, sits above the new family room. With a 12-foot ceiling, it feels elegant and spacious—and now features a generous walk-in closet. Tall Oriental panels on both sides of the bed and a linen-upholstered headboard sized to match form a dramatic focal point. LEFT: The once-cramped master bath is now large enough to include dual sinks, a sculptural soaking tub, a generous shower, and a separate toilet compartment. Chair-rail-height marble on the walls and an ornate chandelier enhance the bath's elegant atmosphere.
